

AMERICAN INDIAN LAW PROGRAM

University of Colorado Law School

We invite you to join us for a public lecture by:

S. James Anaya

U.N. Special Rapporteur on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

Thursday, January 24, 2013, 5-6 p.m.
*reception to follow

University of Colorado Law School
Witemyer Courtroom, Wolf Law Building
2450 Kittredge Loop Road, Boulder, CO 80309

Over the course of his distinguished career, S. James Anaya has represented indigenous peoples from North and Central America in landmark cases before the highest domestic courts and international bodies. Deeply involved in the 25 year effort to draft the U.N. Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples, Anaya was appointed Special Rapporteur in 2008, and is charged with investigating and reporting on the situation of indigenous peoples around the world. Anaya is the author of seminal scholarly texts, including Indigenous Peoples in International Law (Oxford 2006), and serves as Regents Professor and James J. Lenoir Professor of Human Rights Law & Policy at the University of Arizona James E. Rogers College of Law. We are deeply honored to host the Special Rapporteur at Colorado Law and hope you will join us for this important event.

This event is free and open to the public.

We are grateful to our sponsors: Greenberg Traurig LLP; Fredericks, Peebles & Morgan LLP; McElroy, Meyer, Walker & Condon P.C.; Tilden, McCoy + Dilweg LLP; and the Colorado Indian Bar Association. With thanks to Dean Phil Weiser, the Native American Rights Fund, and the Colorado Native American Law Student Association.
