I. READ THIS SYLLABUS – I MEAN IT

In my experience, a lot of students don't actually read the syllabus and then look inattentive by asking questions the syllabus clearly covered. E.g.: "uhhh, by when do we have to sign up on TWEN?" (see infra Section III); "what will the final exam be like?" (see infra section IV(A)). Reading the syllabus is especially important because this syllabus supersedes any prior or other information you may have heard or read about this course. Also, this syllabus covers all course policies in just this first page, so there's no "I didn't have the time" excuse.

II. COURSE DESCRIPTION & SCOPE

The course examines the rights and obligations of employers and employees. It is a far broader course than Employment Discrimination but covers discrimination only minimally. The wide range of topics includes: the status and decline of the employer's traditional right to terminate employees "at will"; employees' rights to sue for termination against public policy or under various statues, such as whistleblower and discrimination laws; minimum/overtime wage claims; public employees' constitutional First Amendment, Fourth Amendment, and Due Process rights; the enforceability as of employment handbooks, letters, and oral communications; employees' rights to family/medical leave; and various employee/employer rights and obligations – for example, privacy rights, defamation, and non-competition/non-solicitation agreements; employers' mandatory arbitration policies for employee claims; unemployment insurance; and workplace health and safety regulation.

III. CONTACTING ME

I will generally be in my office most weekdays. You can just stop by, or you can call or email in advance to make sure I am available at a certain time. Email probably is the most reliable way to reach me at any time.

IV. TWEN - MANDATORY TO SIGN UP

By September 6th, you must sign up for the course's TWEN (Westlaw) web page, which will be used for posting course assignments and readings (other than those in the course book) and for other purposes. The TWEN page will be up by the end of the first week of classes.

V. CLASS PARTICIPATION

Because doing the reading and participating in class matter, I like to mix cold-calling (especially if I haven't heard from you in class in a while) with calling on volunteers. If you are unprepared when called on, (1) just say you are not prepared, don't make something up, and (2) expect to be called on in one of the next few classes – a policy I like because it gives you a chance to "recover." If you have a reasonable excuse for being unprepared or absent, it probably is in your interest to let me know in advance by email, so that (1) I don't call on you if you're unprepared and (2) I know there is a reason other than disinterest.

VI. GRADING

A. Final Exam, But No Midterm

There will not be a midterm, just a final exam. Your final exam grade is your presumptive course grade, subject to the plus/minus factor detailed below. The final exam most likely will have the following two-part format (though I reserve the right to announce a change as the semester progresses): (1) A multiple choice test of roughly 20-25 questions (in class, open-book; probably one hour); and (2) One traditional "issue-spotter" essay question (take-home, open-book, typing mandatory; probably two to three hours).

B. Participation Plus/Minus Factor

I run a discussion-based class, because I see that as the best way to learn this material. Discussions only work if people discuss, so I consider class participation in grading. Specifically, your grade may rise or fall one notch based on your class participation: if your final exam grade is B, your course grade probably will be B, but (1) you might drop to B- for weakness in your participation (which includes attendance, because you cannot participate if you are not there), and (2) you might rise to B+ if your participation is especially strong. Application of the plus/minus factor is the exception, not the rule. Frequent does not guarantee a grade boost, so the vast majority of you who receive no boost should not think I had some problem with your participation.

VIII. READING ASSIGNMENTS

1

The Evolution of a Government Regulatory Scheme

- Read, do not skip, the numbered notes on the assigned pages except notes the assignment says to skip
- For the first class, read pages 650-669.
- Class-by-class reading assignments will be posted on TWEN. If you want to get ahead on the reading, you usually can guess the next assignment from the average of 15-20 pages per class.
